PADRE PAUL'S PONDERINGS

The Faith Journey

In this weeks Gospel, for the Third Sunday of Easter, two disciples of Jesus meet a stranger on the road. When they meet him, they are initially very down and out, relating to the stranger how this great prophet and teacher has now been killed. They also share how some women from their group explained that the tomb was empty, but they have yet to come to understand what this means. But then the stranger, after listening to them, explains to them how the Scriptures predicted what would happen. It's when the stranger is invited in due to the late hour of day that they break bread, and he vanishes from their midst and they come to realize that this was Jesus with them the whole time.

I love this Gospel because there's so much here about the faith as a matter of the head and the heart, and it really being a long journey through life.

With respect to the heart, sometimes God feels very close, sometimes not so much. Odds are you've had an experience in prayer or at Mass where you felt God all around you. But then you may have had stressful situations, or times of great suffering, where God did not seem all that close. We also experience these same things in our marriages, friendships and relationships too. But when one is in love, they keep on journeying with the other person no matter what. Think for instance of God. Time and time again we as humans have rejected Him, choosing sin. But what is the answer to all of this? God seeing the good inside of us. God looking to the heart. God becoming one of us, and dying for us, all out of love. It is also important to remember we do not worship a God who says "I need this person to die today in an accident or to get cancer." God allows these things to happen in life, but in all of this He is with us when we suffer. On our part, sometimes like the disciples, it can be hard to see past pain and difficulty. When we go through these valleys, it's important to remember faith isn't based on feelings. The disciples don't realize it's Jesus with them at first, and sometimes we can be like that, not seeing past the pain which obscures God's face. But as God does not give up on us, we too can't give up on God. It's okay to question, to even be angry, but keep on journeying with God. Remember just because we can't always feel Him, it doesn't mean He's not there. We can grow in the faith through the heart by spending more time with God in prayer, trying different types of prayer, and persevering in prayer even through periods of dryness or when we feel busy. Even a simple prayer asking God for help in trusting and letting go can work wonders, especially in tough times. Remember on Good Friday the worst thing possible happened, but it led to Easter Sunday. Hopefully we can see Jesus journeying with us.

With respect to the head, faith is meant to keep growing. Sometimes it can stop though once we get to confirmation. There really are a ton of great resources for us to grow in our knowledge of the faith, so consider checking them out. From spending time with the Bible, to reading some great online material at sites like Bishop Robert Barron's "Word on Fire," or the United States Council of Catholic Bishop's site, or EWTN.com, the Catholic cable channel, or lifeteen.com, which is the web site of Life Teen, a Roman Catholic movement for youth. There's also tons of great books out there too. Of course some of this can fall under the realm of "fake news" too - some websites have agendas to attack the Church, or the pope, or bishops, etc. So just make sure to vet the website and make sure it isn't agenda-driven. You can also look for the imprimatur stamp on a Catholic book too, indicating it is in alignment with Catholic doctrine. As we study the faith we're able to understand more deeply why the Church teaches as She does on faith and morals. Our faith will sometimes challenge us. After Easter for instance, I got a phone call from a person who did not leave their number, but was upset that I mentioned the Dobbs decision that overturned Roe v. Wade. They were a visitor looking for a parish. She took it as political; but the Church fights tirelessly for life, and the point in my homily that day was Easter is meant to change us so we evangelize and educate the world. Faith is not just belief; faith presupposes belief, and faith is something we grow in. People were upset in the 1950s about integration of Catholic parishes in many parts of the country, and people were upset in the 1850s about abolition who also professed to be Catholic. Ours is a thinking faith; which is why the Church will speak on Scripture and how to interpret it along with Tradition (the ongoing understanding of the Deposit of Faith) but also on matters of morality and social justice, on abortion, marriage, capital punishment, immigration, just war, the treatment of the poor, and many other issues. Yes, faith and politics cross paths - the crucifixion was a political action taken by Rome. And much of what we profess has to do with government policies all over the world. Hence the Catholic needs to be open about their faith and have it inform them as a citizen. Odds are you will be challenged - I have been. But it's so important to be open and to sit with what we struggle, to prayerfully think about it, and hopefully see that the Church is there to help us think about the faith more deeply, and as we do that we are willing to proclaim it to the others.

Through all of this too, its important to try to journey with others. Sometimes people we know and love are like the disciples. They've given up; life has beaten them down; they can't see through the storm; or they've rejected the Church. Jesus though continues to walk with them, and on our part we need to do that too. Don't give up on people in situations like that. Pray for them. Set an example for them through the testament of your life. Be patient. And look for times to talk about what you believe and why and explain it to them. Sometimes we work the fields but can't see the growth going on in a soul, so never underestimate the power of the Holy Spirit.

Sometimes in our faith, we can go on auto-pilot and go through routines. Routines are good; such as going to Mass, praying, etc. But it's important to think about why we do what we do, and to also remember that as great as it can be to be a Christian, inevitably sometimes it can be really hard when people challenge our faith, and life deals us so much suffering. But when we look to the Cross and to the Eucharist, we are reminded that God is with us every step of the way. So let's open our minds, eyes and heart to His presence, and realize He never gives up on us - so may we never give up on Him.

God's blessings to you as we together travel the road to heaven, ~Fr. Paul

Home Missions Appeal:
Strengthening the Church at Home
April 29-30

Did you know that nearly 40% of all dioceses in the United States are unable to fund the essential pastoral work their communities need? That includes our own state's Dioceses of New Ulm, Crookston and Duluth. By supporting this Home Missions Appeal in your parishes, you are providing much needed pastoral and financial support for these dioceses and "Strengthening the Church at Home." Please offer what you are able during this appeal.

Envelopes can be found in your weekly packets.

A Call to Serve...

Are you interested in serving on the Parish Pastoral Council, a body that serves as an advisory and consultative body with Father Paul Kammen?

An active, well-formed Parish Pastoral Council is a key element for promoting the mission of St. Joseph's in various forms of service, outreach, and formation. We are looking for two new members to join us for four-year terms starting this July 1.

Meetings for the 2023-2024 Parish council will start in September, and are typically held the first Thursday of the month starting at 6:30. If interested please contact Parish Council Chairman Jon Guden at jcguden61@gmail.com.

VOLUNTEER OPPORTUNITIES

FAMILY FORMATION & PARISH INFORMATION

St. Joseph is participating in CYSC Northwoods, a ministry of Damascus! The youth of our parish are going to fall in love with the person of Jesus through high adventure activities and the sacraments. Damascus has A NEED for a person with a medical background willing to serve for the week as a camp medical professional (Nurse, NP, Doctor, EMT, etc.). Damascus will send you to camp for free and give you a free campership to give to a member of your family for your service. (You do not need to have a youth attending the camp in order to help volunteer in this capacity.) Camp runs Sun-Fri, June 18-23. If you would be interested in serving in this capacity with our parish please contact me at Kayla.Rooney@StJosephCommunity.org or 651-313-8464 and I will share more about camp, and ultimately connect you with the Damascus Camp Director to solidify your week volunteering!

Thank you for your consideration!

Friendly Reminder:

The weekend of April 29 - 30 we will be celebrating 1st Eucharist Weekend. While a special Mass just for First Eucharist was added, there will still be "Larger" groups during the Saturday 5pm Mass & Sunday 8:30 am and 10:30 am Masses.

Please keep the 74 youth in your prayers as they are preparing for this special day. ~ Thank you
